Happy Mother's Day

Mothers are special to us. For many of us they form an intimate team of individuals who raise us, nurture us and who participate in forming our character. Because of their formative nature, we grow up with a fondness for our mothers that goes to the grave with us. They represent a presence which helps us to be the best we can be.

Mother's Day gives us the opportunity to think on the contributions our own mothers have made in our lives. What values have they taught us? How have they taught us to accept responsibility? How have they encouraged us? How have they been a source of emotional support to us? How have they steered us to be a healthy, whole human being?

These answers help us to know our appreciation for our mothers and how much they have contributed to our lives. They spur us to send cards and make phone calls to show our appreciation.
